

Lack family says thanks for community support

June 16, 2010

Thanks to our great supporters, Sam's Day 2010 was another huge success!

Money is still coming in but it looks like we will reach the $35,000 mark, which is incredible.

This puts our six-year Sam's Day total at more than $215,000.

Thank you so much for your amazing support.

Each and every one of you have been long-time supporters that have helped make Sam's Day a "household name" in the Burlington area.

Together, we have raised awareness of neuroblastoma and been an integral part in the groundbreaking research that is being performed through The James Fund at Sick Kids.

Thank you, thank you, thank you!

Lack family says thanks for community support. Jay Lack presents a very special birthday cake to his son, Sam, during the Sam's Day family event held recently, celebrating Sam's seventh birthday and also his fifth year in remission from neuroblastoma, a rare childhood cancer. The birthday celebration also raises funds for the SickKids Foundation's neuroblastoma research. Michelle Siu – Burlington Post
